

What Does the Public Think of Dr. Oz's Hit Job on Black Salve ? S08-E155 : Airing Wednesday, May 10, 2017 ?

May 12, 2017 @ 8 p.m. CST -- A good indicator of what the general public thought of Dr. Oz's coverage of the subject of Black Salve may be found on his own website :
http://www.doctoroz.com/episode/black-salve-dangerous-home-cancer-treatment-being-sold-online?video_id=5423176179001#comments

Out of 48 comments – all of which are listed below using “cut and paste” except for one “get-rich-quick” piece of spam – 37 were positive of Black Salve and critical of Dr. Oz, 3 were neutral, 7 were “off topic,” and then there's that one deleted spam – the only one I deleted from the list. I've reproduced the rest below without any modifications to the posted text – misspellings, grammar errors, and all . . .

So . . . how many posts were supportive of Dr. Oz's position and that of the FDA, AMA, Big Pharma and the rest of the Medical Industrial Complex?

Not even one.

It even shocked me. Take a look . . .

Dr Oz, I have never bought anything for cures off the internet, I'm a 61 yr old g- ma of 5 , this is my story. About 8 yrs ago it started with dozens of small pimple like bumps, covered my upper back, the itch is indescribable, nothing like I've ever experienced. I went to the Dr convinced, something is biting me, lice, bugs, Dr says no but gives me a lice tx anyway and says not to touch, well tx didn't work, and not touching was Impossible, my back is unrecognizable, moved up my neck and down both arm's and legs. I live in a small town, so we have a wondering Dermatologist that comes to town...See More

I also need to add, last year I went to an old family Dr, and he's the only one to ever do a Real Biopsy, Not just the plunger type, the spot to biopsy was totally random, so I picked the one that really was bothering me , back of RT leg, results came back, Cancer, squemis cell and states that he got it all, not sure how he knows that ??? Without further examination, Question 2 , What about the other 100 sores ?? Never been biopsied again, also had another Dr throw my samples in the garbage, also MSU called me about a trial, heavy metals in system... Never heard back, I hope this helps you un...See More

I have to comment that I used black salve with great progress. Removed a 10 x 7 mm tumor from my breast in less than 10 days. It is healing beautifully. You said yourself on the show that this was used into the 1970's by licensed trained doctors. Most people that are having all the negative issues are using it incorrectly or not as recommended or without training. I was blessed to have someone walk me through it. Of course I am using other alternative treatments to be sure the cancer is not spreading within my body and so far, all natural no mets. I naturally cleared tumors from 4 lymph nodes. I'm sorry but it is a shame that the other side wasn't presented. The many with positive results and the science behind how it works.

Absolutely Tammy! Im very upset that Dr Oz has acted like a pharmaceutical shrill on this topic - there are literally 1000s who have used this sucessfully and use it regularly for many things - DOING IT THE RIGHT WAY and through a reputable source (or in our case, making our own sucessfully)

I wish he would have approached this subject differently - makes you wonder who has an issue with it all - but got both sides of the stories and balanced

Dr. Oz, I used the black salve recommended to me from a well known friend. I had breast cancer and the black salve worked. I was diagnosed with breast cancer and in an attempt to try everything out there, after I was diagnosed , but before I tried chemo, the cancer came out. I don't believe it is a cure all for every cancer but it is an alternative. Your guest that was on T.V., got scared and she panicked , I understand that as well, however , you need to have someone that completed the process. The hole ,wherever it is on your body, with the exception of the nose because of the shape of the nose itself, does fill in. My experience was remarkable and it saved my life . I know that is hard to believe, but their is more to this story. Maybe, you should have someone on your show that it worked on, so that a much more informed decision could be made. Sincerely,

Janice Gillock

I have salved a couple of spots that came up and they healed beautiful. I also know of a lot of people that have salved more intense places and they recovered well too, yes I looks scary sometimes but it heals beautiful and you can be sure there is nothing left underneath. Before stating things like you did, you beter educated yourself indepht on black salve or is it that you are afraid loosing customers? Looks like the Big Pharma attitude to me.

I have successfully used black salve on my face and back to remove skin.cancers. Healed over completely. The salve only reacts to abnormal and cancerous cells. It does not react on healthy skin. It actually awakens your immune system into recognizing the bad cells and it's your immune system that pulls and draws it out. They only show the in between stages, which is a scare tactic. Would be the same if they only showed the surgical process of a Dr removing skin cancer and not showing the healed process. The salve does not burn, or melt your skin off. This is all rubbish!

Tina Chandler SO TRUE!! The salve needs only ONE application, with skin on questionable area lightly punctured to allow salve to penetrate. (I've seen where people apply it two or three times and then that can cause a problem.) When used and applied as instructed, there are NO problems. Only responds to malignant tissue, and when it lifts the growth out, the hole completely re granulates with little to no scarring. Have used it multiple times myself and will continue to do so. Absolutely amazing and so much better than huge cuts and scars by conventional medicine that in many instances DO NOT remove all the malignancy. Get real Dr Oz and present the truth, not some sensationalised rubbish.

Tina Chandler Absolutely! And what is the difference between using black salve and surgery? Surgery also leaves a large gaping hole, which the surgeons close with stitches and it leaves a nasty scar (I have evidence of this on my left leg). At least the hole left from black salve, if used correctly, heals naturally and leaves little or no scar.

I don't know anything about Black Salve. However, the reason people are looking for other products for treating cancer is because chemo and radiation are a big lie. Why don't you tell the public the truth about those treatments? They have a 2.1% success rate. Wow! I know why because Big Pharma, and the FDA are all on the same team of making medical care a big business. Sorry, I support alternative cancer care and would much rather figure it out myself than go through conventional treatment for cancer.

All I can say is that Im very disappointed in the Show now - what a biased story - and not fully investigated properly -

Where you paid the big $$$$ to blacken this successful cure?

At least point out that yes, if you buy a product that may be a cheap knockoff (and we know that the big pharma can do this just to cause chaos!) AND if the proper protocols are not followed properly (yes there are proper instructions!) - there will be issues like all things in life people use But its a successful 'cure' for many cell problems

I will now be questioning everything that goes on your show (not that I didnt before, but VERY weary of what you preach)

I am totally satisfied with my results. Traditional Doctors never found my issue. I will never be cut , poisoned or burned . The gross images are a part of the process. In my instance, the shin in the healed area is new . Concern yourself with issuse like Mercury in vaccines (apparently a preservative ?) , GMO (pestercide & herbicide contamination) and Flouride . My dog was dying of cancer. Instead of making him weak with surgery, chemo or radiation, I treated him like I would myself. His diet was changed to what a dog would eat wild (all raw meat.. and he grazes the grass when he needs roughage). And we used bloodroot or black salve to attack his tumors. He has more energy now at 8 then he did at 5. Once he beat cancer, I found an itchy spot on me. I used the salve. It reacted showing me I had abnormal cancerous tissue. A mammogram couldn't pick it up (too small yet to be seen). If a doc can't see it with their "high tech" equipmebt, then they couldn't even diagnose me. I am taking care of it myself with the salve. It's working wonderfully. Would you treat your family with chemo, surgery or radiation? Because I trust salve to recommend to all my friends and family. Dr Oz is a western doctor, a shill for big pharma and FDA. You aren't to be trusted.

As a child and teenager I worked in the fields harvesting vegetables for my families business. I was exposed to sun at an early age. 50 years later I develop a spot on my leg. I go to the doctor she says it's Basel cell and its easy to get rid of. She burns the spot and it heals. 2 years later same spot start growing. By this time I had already had a lumpectomy for a small cancer. Also, but after my lumpectomy I started learning more about cancer and did what I could changing my diet etc. I found out about bs through an acquaintance. I put a small dab on my leg where the cancer came back. 10 days all gone healed up great and have used it on other Basel cell spots.

Dr Oz Marijuana has been demonized for decades and now big pharmacy has gotten to the point of making a synthetic pill for chemo patients nausea. Plus all the horrific seizures little children and adults had to endure because AMA is married to Big Pharma and they rejected the healing properties of Marijuana. Now, they're after black salve.

The history is clear on why it's taken so long for Marijuana to finally be used for medical purposes. Dr Oz you are on the wrong side and there are countless proof BS does work and have saved lives. It's so easy to cherry pick and this is what you had to do. How many times have a person died from using black salve and please put this number up against people that have had chemo and been cut and died. Cancer comes back because it has roots. Stop trying to fool people because we know. Or maybe you are trying hard to cater to big pharma and save your life????

A friend who is a long time nurse turned me on to black salve. Another friend uses it all the time on skin cancers. NONE of us have ever been left with a gaping whole. And if that were the case, don't doctors CUT AWAY cancers, thus leaving a gaping hole? Some of the photos the OZVideo leads off with show someone rubbing a large area with the salve. You would only put it on the small area being treated.. If it is a larger area you need more medical help/advice. And as for breast cancer, if needed you need pain meds while it is being removed by black salve. But the good stuff does work, probably...See More

You have lied is the only conclusion I can come to Dr. OZ. Your information is fake. Real black salve does not burn like a cigar in minutes. If you found this, you should investigate the formula used because people are purposely hurting others. But you don't really care about helping people do you? Instead you breed fear from people helping themselves. You are not trying to help others. This showed clearly. False unsubstantiated claims that are meant to make people fear something that you most likely know works. Or you are lazy and let others tell you what the problem is instead of investigating for your self. It's a shame that people are blinded by you, the WOLF in sheep's clothing, leading others astray. I am still in shock out the falsity of your reporting. If you can do this with something I know we'll, how can I trust anything else you say? I can't but you don't care do you?

I've used Amazon Black Salve on my forehead, nose, breast, and arm with success. The reason I looked for an alternative treatment for basil cell was because I had Mohs Surgery on my face and it left a scar with webbing. I have to look at it everyday with regrets.

Before I used the salve, I tested a healthy spot on my arm and nothing happened. Yes, it does have a burning sensation sometimes and you can feel it drawing the abnormal cells to one place forming the scab. When scab falls off, you do have a hole but it heals back up. It's very important to follow the directions and use the correct strength. I bought the milder strength because it was for skin cancer and it definitely worked.

I grew a mole on top of another mole, like a small nose on a face. I used black salve to remove it. If you don't cover with an ointment such as vaseline and a bandage, it can be too uncomfortable. The roots were extensive since I felt the black salve working not just at the application site but downwards from the mole in line to my kidneys. When the mole dropped out, I put it in the freezer, Of the entire piece, the part with the mole grew higher, double than the surrounding tissue. It's not something I would ever use for face, neck or any exposed body part as it does scar and scar deeply. However, if a doctor had cut out this mole out, how would the doctor know that he or she had gotten all the root? What was left would surely be a problem. I had cancer and cancer surgery in 1999. This mole came 6 years later, it has not returned. I have been cancer free since.

You and your staff lied. I don't know what your agenda is, but you definitely have one. Not sure if your staff are aware, maybe they think they are actually protecting people too. What you did was wrong, and everyone involved should be ashamed of themselves. Flat out lies and manipulation with no substantiated facts at all. As a Dr., you had to be aware that the "evidence" you portrayed was not proof at all. What's the formula of each product that hurt people? Some of the pictures you used to show Black Salve as something to fear had stories of success and follow-up photo's of success. Why did you not let the audience know that? You and every staff member who reviewed the facebook groups have taken people's personal and private journeys with cancer to satisfy your agenda.

Your agenda used photos meant to show healing against the product that has helped these people. That is just wrong and a complete manipulation of your audience with intent. If I didn't read about the journeys these people were on and see their success and the love the members in the group have for each other, I never would be upset. But I have been reading them for years and have use salve myself, even testing it on normal skin for over 24 hours with no reaction at all. But according to you it should have burned a hole in my skin. But it didn't, why? So, I know you are a liar and your staff are involved too. This lie is WRONG. The people who are helping each other based on their knowledge and experience using black salve are loving and kind. You painted them as quacks and made America believe your lie. What a gross display of slander, but they are the bad guys, and you are on a quest to protect us. I just don't understand you and those who were involved with you on this. It is such a blatant lie. You all read these posts yet deny all the amazing things you saw there. It's not always the fear of doctors that causes people to search for other more natural cures. I didn't have fears of dermatologists until they started making these huge scars on my face. Years ago the military refused to believe the mark on my face was Basal cell, even after at least 3 biopsies confirmed it was. It took nearly a year before it was removed and in that time it had grown significantly. Since then I have had 5 more spots on my face in the following years and also elsewhere. Scars are disheartening anywhere on the body, but the face is tough. With 2 major prior surgical removals on my face, I was scared to have the VA take the 3 new spots. They were tiny. So when I saw those spots I searched for natural cures and found out about black salve. I went to a local health store and she said you had to be extremely careful when using it. It would burn the area where the basal cell cancer was and then it would scab over. Be cautious to only use the exact amount you needed and immediately wash hands. That worried me a bit and since it was a little expensive, I just didn't feel right so I didn't buy it. Instead I opted for the hatchet job. You can't choose who does the surgery with the VA. You just have to hope it's your lucky day. It was not my lucky day. Those tiny spots made a mess and caused permanent numbness and noticeable scars, which luckily I can cover if my bangs stay in place. The other scars also an inch or longer are less noticeable. I do not like looking like Dr. Frankenstein was my dermatologist. If you, Dr. Oz had not devoted show time on the dangers of this black salve, I definitely would have used the black salve. I promised myself no more surgeries on my face. It's just basal cell and as the military explained, it's only a nuisance cancer, no biggie, no concern - although it seems some think it's more than that.

Anyway, after the last hatchet job I quit looking for spots and will just live with them. They are much, much less noticeable.

I am disappointed that Dr Oz has made this report on his show. The photos always look dramatic in the treatment phase but where are the photos when healed ?

So biased is this report one could think it was paid for by vested interests.

I am a trained nurse and I have used the salve successfully many times with no scarring.

If only the medical profession would recognise the salve as a useful treatment and supervise the use of it, people would not have to go it alone.

I believe that people have the right to choose their treatment and take responsibility for the outcome.

Many orthodox medical treatments are painful and disfiguring and sometimes result in death when cancers are not completely removed because the human eye cannot detect the full extent of the cancer.

The salve always detects it all, that is why it can be surprising how extensive the unseen cancer is.

Are you so scared of the pharmaceutical/medical power that you cannot provide a balanced report ?
